TKP supports Trinita FC Oita.

We promote activities which contribute to activation of the communities in Oita Prefecture, and continuously try to solve local problems through sports with Trinita FC Oita.

Origin of TKP Logo and Company Name

Total Kūkan Produce

TKP Logo

The motif of the TKP logo is the image of the wind blown flag held by Liberty in "Liberty Leading the People" an influential work painted by Eugene Delacroix. It also expresses a revolutionary symbol which leads customers, society and employees in a better direction. The "red" color of the logo mark symbolizes the same passion and revolution as the motif.

Origin of Company Name

The company name of TKP originates from "Takateru Kawano Partners" the initials of the founder Takateru Kawano. These three letters were applied to "Total Kukan Produce" to produce value from zero as a "space reproduction distribution company," and spirit to "produce" the usage of space "pleasantly" and "delightfully" through innovation was incorporated in our company name.
